On Clarity of Thought

Acknowledging the many flaws within one's own nature, allows an individual to consciously work upon them. Directing focus towards a refinement of impulsive behaviour; that contributes to poor decision making. Recognition of that which no longer serves as a positive influence. The first step towards refining this trait. Striving to maintain an open mind, that is still capable of acting decisively. Proves a crucial skill in the process of self-analysis. As critical thought helps an individual to make decisions with greater clarity. Clearing the way for new ideas to enter consciousness. By cutting away that which no longer serves to empower one's life. Opens the mind to the infinite potential that lies within. Yet it rests with the individual, to what extent they choose to embrace it. As every expression of the creative faculty is completely unique. The divine imprint of one individual will likely appear completely different to that of another.

For creativity exists free of earthly constraints, when it's directed towards an endeavour of personal significance. The tireless dedication towards a particular outcome. Mirrored within the project one invests quality time into. The drive to create something that inspires like-minded soles. Serving as the primary source of inspiration. This provides an individual with a crucial spark. So long as the will to persevere; is not extinguished by the trials of this world. The intuitive insights that have served as one's guide. Should be able to stir imagination from the depths. So, it can proceed with the vision. One is determined to see take root. Regardless of both the personal cost and the duration of time it takes. So long as one remains grounded in the conviction to stay the course. It's only a matter of time before the desired goal will begin to manifest. As belief comprises the very heart of the undertaking.

As all that flows from a positive mindset; creates the ripples of change required. To move beyond the hesitation of starting a new endeavour. For the anxiety of falling short of one's aspirations. Often serves as a stumbling block to the first attempt. Conflicted thoughts slowly working to undermine what one seeks to create. So long as the mind is conscious of the intrusion; such thoughts can be overcome. The more one embraces a patient outlook. Helps ease the rise of irrational trains of thought. Creating space for clarity to resume its rightful throne. The focal point of the mind's mental activity. The channel through which an individual seeks to expand awareness. Through the active pursuit of higher knowledge. The likes of which dissolves the lingering shadows of ignorance. Which seek to hold the mind captive, with all manner of cunning illusions. That make it difficult for the mind to see things clearly.